2. Evaluation:

Parental involvement is quite high at Huntsville. Usually, in a K-12 school you would find that parent involvement would taper off in high school. However, at Huntsville, this dynamic is not present. Parents are not only closely involved at the younger grades, they continue to stay closely involved throughout their childrens' school career. Most families are large with siblings across many grade levels. Furthermore, moms that stay at home with their children tend to be readily available to be involved at the school. Dads that are working make concerted efforts to be involved in events outside of school hours. All of these attributes help to maintain a strong sense of community.

Key Takeaways:

Huntsville teachers at all levels work hard to provide a strong education base for students. At the lower grades, there is a concerted effort to ensure student's English language acquisition is of the highest priority. Elementary teachers work to provide targeted intervention to support student growth in areas of literacy and numeracy.

2. Evaluation:

The above data is shared to highlight the challenges and successes of a community that is increasingly embracing higher levels of education. Essentially all students speak German(Low) at home. Through intense support, they eventually begin to do as well as English speaking students. Retention rates are increasing as more students graduate over a two year high school period. The potential for a 3rd year of high school coupled with students challenging themselves to take more science and math has yet to be fulfilled. It is important to note that 98% of students attending the school are English as an Additional Language (EAL)

2. Evaluation:

Although the wellness data does not compare positively with national data on the OurSCHOOL survey, the context of the data may play a part. Due to the sensitivity of the survey and concerns for our LGM community, students completed a survey that was not appropriate for their age. That is, using the junior high survey for older students. This means that the data is not accurate. Future use of the survey will need to take this into account. Furthermore, the community is isolated and does not have access to the same level of services as other schools in larger centers. As parents and students strive for higher levels of education, access to services becomes a greater priority.

Highlights

Low completion rates are a misleading data set for this community as historically students did not complete school. Over the last 4 years, the number of students graduating has steadily increased. Both parental involvement and education quality are obvious high points in the data.

Challenges

Language barrier challenges continue to exist alongside hesitancy to complete schooling. Trust between the school and community is highlighted by the strong parental involvement and appreciation for the quality of the education. Over time, the goal is to continue to strengthen bonds and encourage more students to stay in school longer.

Huntsville School : Final Notes and Reflection

This report pulls data from several different sources. They include the Assurance Measures Report, OurSCHOOL Survey, PAT/ Diploma results, as well as some F&P data. Huntsville teachers do a great job building a strong foundation of skills for our students in the early grades. Our Elementary teachers work hard to provide targeted support for our students so that they can meet grade-level expectations as they get to upper elementary, Junior High, and High School. As a school, we strive to be inclusive and are working on continuing to support all students and give them what they need to be successful. Our school also has worked hard to form strong relationships with the community and help them feel involved in the education of our students. We will continue to work on this partnership and provide opportunities for parents to feel more connected. Huntsville had its first graduate in 2019. Then 3 in 2020 and close to a dozen each year since. The staff has done much to improve the level of trust with the community, while parents and students have strived to do more with their education. Furthermore, a key ingredient to the success is that the school “fast-tracks” students to graduate at the end of grade 11. Students who are better suited for Dash 2 and 3 streams benefit from this model. Students that have higher academic potential are still well served, but miss the opportunity to do more math and science. Furthermore, a small teaching staff is stretched to provide various opportunities within the high school curriculum. Continued growth could allow for more high school teachers, thus allowing for access to more quality courses. In the meantime, students are fortunate to have access to Palliser’s Off Campus opportunities and to a lesser extent courses offered by Palliser Beyond Borders
